A Curiosity for Barnum.

If Barnum will only come or send to Eureka for a curiosity he will find a prize. It is the form of a man, and we daresay there is but one of the kind in America. He works worsted mottoes, and he boards on Nob Hill. The other day he presented his land landlady with a mottoe worked on a perforated cardboard 8x20 inches the inscription, "God Bless Our Boarding-house. He still exists, but may not last long. Turning the Carson River.

It is reported that a company is peing organized in Virginia City to turn the Carson river, near the Santiago mill, the project being to clean out the bed of the stream and capture the tons of quicksilver and amalgam that are supposed to be there. No youbt there are large quantities of precious stuff in the numerous pot-holes and swirls in the river-bed, but it will require considerable patience and time and not a little capital, to get at the real nutriment that may be in the channel. A year or two ago a number of miners put in a side flume to turn the river when the water was comparatively low, believing that the river would become still lower. They also put in a steam pump, and attempted to pump out a sink, more than twenty feet deep, thinking that much good stuff was to be found in its murky depths; but before they got any profitable returns, a swash as water came down from the adjacent hills and drowned that out A few days ago it looked as if the river would be lower this year than ever before, thus affording an but the pluvial dividend of the past week has squelched these hopes, and it is probable that the bed of the turbulent Carson will not be desturced until another opportunity comes along. But 'there's millions in it" without a doubt .- Dayton Times.

Revenue Informers Threaten Incendiarism. NEW YORK, April 6 .- A dispatch from Canton, Ga., says: Great excitement exists throughout this country over the threats of incendiarism which have been made against a number of citizens by some revenue informers. Some days ago several prominent citizens were arrested and taken to Atlanta under charges made by informers of violating the Revenue laws. The prisoners made statements in court which were so conclusive that the Judge ordered the cases dismissed without hearing a word from the proffessionals. This angered the latter so that they have freely indulged in threats of incendiarism. The Sheriff has arrested four of them, while the officers are now in persuit of six othes who have fled into the moun-

The Italian Quarters in New York. NEW YORK, April 7.- The Sanitary Inspectors detailed to examine the condition of the principal Italian quarters of this city give a shocking report of the life and habits of that class of foreigners. All those visited were crowded in filthy apartments where they cooked and slept. They got all their food from ash-barrels; they scrape remnants of meat from the bones, and eat them with the bread picked from ash heaps and they smoke cigar stumps picked up in the streets. Six families of twenty-nine persons occupy six rooms in one house, with but one closet for the three houses. Some of the sights witnessed are too filthy for publication.

THE CHARGE AGAINST DAY

He is Acquitted in the Justice Court. Yesterday the case of Willie Day, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was decided in the Justice Court, the jury bringing in a verdict of not guilty,

It appears that a few weeks ago William Corbett purchased the candy store, formerly run by Day, next to Sweeny's saloon. After the purchase money had been paid, Day asked $25 more for certain repairs which were to be made by Le Porte, the owner of the premises. Day gave Corbett a deed and guaranteed that Le Porte would make the repairs without extra charge. This Le Porte refused to do and Corbett had Day arrested | Rents of county building for obtaining money under false

Unconstitutional

A good deal of attention has been manifested in the Justice of the Peace at Pizen Switch who declared the Anti-treating law unconstitutional. The Lyon County Times thus sketches the Justice.

During his recent assessing trip to the southern end of the country, H. J. Carling was arrested for an alleged violation of the anti-treat law. He was taken before a Justice of the Peace who said:

"Mr. Carling I am surprised and pained to see the Assessor of Lyon county the first man brought before this Court for breaking the laws of his State. Mr. Constable, let me look at your papers."

After examining the papers in the case, His Honor continued:

"I have no official knowledge of such a law having been enacted by the Legislature; but if the Legislature of this State were d-d fools enough to pass such a law, I now pronounce the same unconstitutional. Mr. Carling, you are discharged."

"Thank you, Judge," replied Hugh "let us go and take a drink." "It's a whack," said his Honor, 'this Court now stands adjourned."

Jones vs. Adams.

The case of Jones ys. Adams re- Total cently decided by the Supreme Court of this State, is of great importance to Nevada. Especially the agricultural interest. It decides once for all, and without qualexcellent epportunily for working ification, that appropriation is the governing the use of water, and that "riparian rights" as understood at the common law, and as decided in Vansickle vs. Haines, Seventh Nevada Reports, have no existence in this State, and are wholly inapplicable to our situation. In this respect the case reverses in terms the celebrated case of Vansickle ys. Haines, and holds the right to the use of flowing water to depend upon actual appropriation and beneficial use. The decision maintains the position taken originally by General Clarke in the case of Vansickle vs. Haines, and persistently maintained by him ever since.
